Comments: I believe it would be in our community's best interest for this land to be available for exploration and potential mining. Mining has come a long way and can be done in an environmentally safe manner. For example, Kensington's permits say their discharge water is cleaner than the drinking water standard. The two mines that are located near Juneau are the biggest employers in Southeast Alaska. Mining is a great career opportunity for young men and women in our state. I really only see this as a positive for our community.
