Comments: Kurt Steel I am in disbelief that you have so much say on what happens on public land . Not a panel of experts . I do not understand how just one guy can decide on a project of this size. It's just too much for one person and too much responsibility for the determination of the outcome of a project of this magnitude. It should be a panel of people with way more expertise than you have as one individual. Who else is involved with making this decision and what are their backgrounds or specialty areas of education?
