Comments: I have to finally give you all my two cents. May not even be worth that. I lived there in Condon for a number of magical years. Participated in the local community as best as I could.

Brought all my grandchildren to Holland to experience the clear, ice cold swimming in August! Hike up to the falls! I have kayaked the lake with friends, once even at night to see a super moon come up over the mountains! Memories worth more than any money.

I have been reading some of the comments generated since yesterday's meeting. One thing hit me hard enough to decide to comment. The POWDR representative stating they were trying to create something that other types of people would enjoy to come visit.

I am very sorry, POWDR. But if you aren't willing to come and enjoy and experience nature at her finest. Camp, swim, hike in simple terms in simple natural places, then those people don't belong here at Holland Lake. They belong and wish to enjoy fancy hotels, fancy service, extravagant surroundings....not nature.

The beauty of Holland Lake is needed for those who love nature, her beauty, her wildlife in all her glory. If you want fancy hotels and services there are way too many of those places already.

Leave Holland Lake in her natural state of beauty and grace. Once she is lost to development, she can never be returned.
