Comments: I strongly oppose the development at Holland Lake. The lake is beautiful and wild as is. We all need an untouched area to visit and recharge. For many of us, this is it. There is plenty of access already available near the lake. A big development is not necessary, and will detract from other people's experience. This is also an area that supports endangered and threatened species including the grizzly bear. This development will only push bears (and other species) into even smaller ranges, and will lead to more bear-human conflicts.
