Comments: Holland Lake is a local treasure and beloved spot for Montana's residents. However in recent years there has been too much over exposure for Holland Lake as a tourist location. The once secluded and quite lake has become almost a place to avoid with the amount of traffic from tourists. Recreation goers try to get out into nature to get away from the noise and hustle of the cities. By adding this expansion it would not only increase the amount of noisy and unappreciative outsiders, but ruin the natural beauty of the landscape. Cutting down trees and putting up tourist cabins will put a real eye sore on Holland Lakes beautiful shores. There is a charm to the untouched and quiet places in the woods. Montana is truly a mystical place, how can one want to demolish that serenity with a foreign tourist company's building project? Building that expansion will do nothing but harm the serenity and tranquility of Holland Lake.
