Comments: I have spent many happy vacations at Holland Lake over the years - it's truly a unique and beautiful spot. It should stay unique. An application by POWDR ("one of the largest ski resort operators in North America" ) will damage Holland Lake irreparably if granted. Moving the Holland Lake Lodge from a locally-owned facility to one owned by a mega-corporation is not in the public interest.

This project would have significant environmental impacts and requires an EIS. Anyone who has spent time at Holland Lake (and I know people that have been engaged there since the first cabins were built) know that this is a fragile and special place. Not one that is designed for this sort of huge project. An EIS is required to know about the damage that would be done by POWDR's plans.

I love Holland Lake Lodge, and would like to see it be a successful enterprise. That is no reason to grant this sort of franchise to POWDR. I would very much like to see the Lodge operated as-is, perhaps by a new operator who will not expand its footprint over the area.

thank you,

Dan Grove
