Comments: I have been coming to Holland Lake since I was a baby. I'm now 52. My family loved the lake for canoeing, kayaking, camping, and starting backpack trips into the Bob Marshall. It is among my most favorite spots on the planet, truly. I cannot fathom the negative impact to wildlife, flora, as well as the pristine peace there of this proposed project. We do not need an expensive lodge to enjoy the beauty of Holland as it is. Taking such a jewel and transforming it to yet another playground for the wealthy is not the Montana way. My family growing up was funded by my father's Forest Service salary (Equipment Development) before his injury, and one of the most important lessons he taught me is that Montana's great bounty of lakes, forests, rivers and natural splendor is free to access and available to all of us, not just a wealthy few. Please do not allow an outside company to exploit and harm our Lake.
