Comments: I am not an expert in any way. I am a Montanan who grew up re retail g and camping at Holland Lake. My daughter held her wedding there, and I continue to go there to relax, be close to our natural wonders in the great divide, and hike the trails surrounding it.

I do know how much land, resources, and money go into a project of this size. I know how the roads will be clogged with construction material, how the need for water, food, and other supplies will need to be brought in to the area because there are no sources close by. I know how the garbage, water and sewer usage and disposal will effect all the surrounding wa ater, forests, and wildlife. The beauty that is now will be demolished for the sake of profit a n.v d greed. The people who would be able to enjoy it now will not be able to recreate there anymore. And I believe the wealthy, uncaring, and ignorance of stewardship will only be happy when the wildlife is "controlled", the amenities are accented, and the beauty itself will be marred from the build and the use. Our Forest Service should protect, or purchase this land f ok r future generations. The scars and destruction will.impact this area and Montana for many gene free ations. The POWDR company will not care about this area when their profits and greed are never satisfied. They bring absolutely nothing enriching or beneficial to Hland Lake.

We need to do better and protect and preserve this majestic area.
