Comments: As an 84 year old woman who has seen the world change dramatically over my Lifetime, I am disheartened.

While progress has been a given in my 84 years, so is patience.

Patience to let some things be. To sit still. To not over develop. To keep.

Those that have lived many years have much knowledge and history of the past.

Holland Lake is and should be captured in its time, as it was, as it is now. No phones, no service, no fast anything. Just a raw beautiful piece of living history that we can "be" in, if even for a moment.

Holland Lake is and should be for the people which means it stays...as it was, as it is now.

I encourage the USFS to deny an expansion proposal. There are already grand places to recreate close by like Paws Up or better yet back in Park City.

Why here and now POWDR? Why won't this company buy Private Land to develop their "grand scheme."
The answer...there isn't any.

So instead, they have gone after what is yours and mine to consume it like most businesses will do.
They have either fooled the USFS or fooled themselves. We shall see.
