Comments: I am in support of the development of trails known as lemon gulch in the ochocos. My wife and I are nurses working in the local healthcare environment, many days this job can be stressful and exhausting. Having access to local trail networks, specifically mountain biking, allows us to decompress. Bend and surrounding communities has many great trails, but does lack some of the more advanced and exciting trails that this system could help supplement the area with. Currently to get to trails that are similar we would have to drive several hours each way;making it a full day endeavor. Having these trails will also help to decrease user conflicts with the development of one way purpose built system. The ochocos is an area that our family has found to be exciting to explore with the fast wilderness.
