Comments: Hello, I have been a recreational national forest user in Oregon for several decades. I'd like to voice my support for the Lemon Gulch mountain bike trail. The Ocochos are an amazing place, and this an exciting opportunity to share use of the forest with respectful community of users. I have recreated with several types of users (hikers, climbers, etc) and find the mountain bike community to be exceptionally friendly, responsible, organized, supportive, and community-oriented stewards. I'm continually amazed at how well they maintain trails and other facilities and communicate about stewardship within the community. I appreciate the communities that surround the Ocochos and would like the opportunity to visit and support them.
