Comments: I do not think that clear cutting this much timber is needed. I agree that select cutting can be useful and prevents wasting mature timber that will eventually rot if it is not cut. However, clear cutting creates more damage than good and is a HUGE waste of timber that could be select cut years down the road. Clear cutting is especially harmful on steep land like this. Wildlife has thrived for years in big timber so I do not understand the view that this is for the benefit of the wildlife.
