Comments: I would oppose this logging project. I may live in Nebraska but I have family in Kentucky as well as in Tennessee and many of them live near this area. That all being said I believe stewarding out land is a responsibility that spans this nation and not just limited to those that live local to projects like this. Forests do not grow back quickly and once gone you may never see them again. When new trees are planted they take years and sometimes decades to grow to maturity and many forests that we have in this nation are decades old. Replanting them is not easy nor is it a guarantee of revival once a forest has been cut down. I do not believe this project is necessary and support it's termination
