Comments: This swap makes very little sense to me. A few acres in the Madison range for more in the crazies? Those are many miles apart. Not many people would ever use that proposed low lying east side trail, and it seems like it's being used as a reason to shut the public out of accessing the sweetgrass drainage via car- a legacy access. For all I'm concerned, they can have the Acreage adjacent to thier ski area, but trade land more locally. Leave the crazies how they are until either side has a better plan to appease both sides.
