Comments: Hello,

I'm getting in touch as a member of the mountain biking community at-large, and as someone raised in a small rural town that was changed by the sport. I was raised in the small town of Calistoga, CA, and have been able to witness the positive change brought on by increased access to nature for the residents and the visitors to the town. It's great for the local kids, and can be a boon to the economy. Shops, restaurants, guiding services, and even public works stand to gain from more trails and publicity.

I hope to see more trail systems pop up in Oregon, as the landscape certainly warrants it.

Thank you,

Dario
