Comments: The Daniel Boone National Forest is a treasure not just for this area but for the nation. Too much of the land is in public hands and subject to potential logging or other destructive acts. We need to preserve the forest and protect native species of plants and animals for future generations. The negative impact this logging will bring far outweighs any short-term monetary gain. Our forests are a buffer to climate change and need to be preserved at all cost. The public lands of the Daniel Boone National Forest bring tourist dollars into the local economy. As a small business owner that depends on tourist dollars, I see this proposed project and a threat to our Forest and my income.
