Comments: We travel to central oregon often & hope to live in the area some day. Developing a new MTB trail system would be a great opportunity to relieve & reduce over use of the existing trails in the area. This proposes a downhill-focused trail network, a type of riding experience that is severely lacking in Central Oregon.

Lemon Gulch lends itself to truly technical and steep trails not possible elsewhere in Central Oregon.

Trails that offer a full range of difficulty, all located in one small zone, means families and friends of different abilities can enjoy a shared day of riding.

Thanks!
