Comments: The science is in and it's clear that we need to protect our forests. This project will deeply damage the ecosystem for generations and will be an example to our children and grandchildren of how little we cared for them. While we can't do anything about the burning of acres of rainforest in the Amazon, we can certainly protect our forests here. Cutting these trees for a quick, easy buck is morally wrong and scientifically obscene. These forests belong to ALL Americans and they're being cut to serve a few. If you care about humanity or even just about the people in your family, you will not allow the desecration of our Public Lands for the sake of something as ridiculous as money.
