Comments: I am writing in support of the Lemon Gulch trail network in the Ochoco National Forest.

The Lemon Gulch project appears very similar in design and intent to the Whiskey Run Trails system within the Coos County Forest. I am a retired person and I bike there weekly (weather permitting). By my observation the trails have been successful in drawing visitors to the Coos Bay-Bandon area. The trail committee has proven to work smoothly with the county foresters and forest operations have not been compromised.

I am thinking about my tours for next summer, and a project like Lemon Gulch would definitely be on the short list.
