Comments: One of the great passions in my life is outdoor recreation. I believe that improving access to our public wilderness will enrich the lives of countless Oregonians as well as bring economic benefits to the local communities from people coming to recreate.

As a registered Nurse I think that improving access to the activities will prevent and reduce negative health outcomes. I think that many of us can come up with reasons why we're too busy to go to the gym or do another form of exercise. It's great to have activities that call to us and excite us.

As a father I believe that increasing access to the wilderness and recreation will give us a wilderness playground where we can play with our children and show them that they can have more fun in the mountains than they could ever have looking at their phones. Of course I'll happily pause with my Daughter for a selfie after we finish a grueling climb.
