Comments: I grew up in bend and watch projects like this overpopulate and overwhelm the local area and wildlife as the years went by. All the research and nonsense that pro-project reps try to sell about it not affecting wildlife habits is just that. Nonsense. There is no research better than being a hunter/ fisherman that's spent 20 years watching the changes first hand. There is no benefit from the lemon gulch project except to the bicyclists that care not how they affect anyone else or the land
