Comments: Please help us preserve the abundant nature found in the Daniel Boone National Forest in the Jellico Mountains area of Whitley and McCreary Counties Kentucky! Your employees safety is at risk in these areas. According to the USGS Soil Survey most of this area is poorly suited for Timber Harvest Equipment. This situation is near to my heart because once while traveling, my family was in a car that was totaled by a landslide. It was a very scary moment and gratefully we all survived. Logging should not be done in areas where the risk of landslides is so great. The risk to employees, your equipment, and surrounding areas should not be so high. This is one of many reasons this project should be reconsidered and evaluated further.
