Comments: I would like to start by saying that I live in Estill county. I have 120 acres in the Daniel Boone. Even though I don't live near the Jellico logging is very common in and near my farm. I feel that selective harvesting of timber is necessary and vital to the growth and preservation of the forest. Having said this I am not in favor of the 3 methods being proposed in this project. I believe that any method of clear cutting will have long term damage of this area. I know that erosion and flooding will most surely take place due to these types of methods of harvesting. I would say that I definitely do not want this project to take place. I will close with a message to the Forestry service please if you log this do it like you live in the area and will be effected by your own work. Thank you for your time looking at these comments.
