Comments: Montana is truly blessed with ample public land, and extended hunting access through the Block Management program. However, as a public landowner, I am alarmed at the current scourge of out-of-state buyers who are trying to lock up precious parcels of our public legacy. Do we want Montana to become just a playground for the rich?

I am opposed to this poor bargain. We can and must do better, for this particular place, and for the precedent it sets for the next wealthy outsider who wants to buy up another piece of Montana, and ignore historical access to real Montanans.
