Comments: I strenuously object to a land swap ceding public land to the Yellowstone Club organization. While there are myriad reasons to criticize them as an organization, such as their labor practices leading to international workers to sue them, the most salient issue is their history of neglect as stewards of the land they own. The Crazy Mountains are a unique and beloved part of Park County, and leaving it in the hands of a business that would destroy a mountain and pay the fine to build a golf course instead of respect the law and the voices of the community members that are directly affected by those actions seems at best irresponsible and at worst a move that could indelibly change the landscape for the worst. Thank you for considering my opinion.
