Comments: I do not support any actions that would diminish public access to public land. This action would provide a net loss in public access points to valuable public land in the Crazies. Additionally, the land swap effectively trades much more desirable lower land elk and deer habitat for much less hospitable high elevation land more suitable for goats and rock climbing. Elk hunting access is already less than desirable in this area. Finally, the potential for wealthy private land owners to rob the public of this countries natural resources for their own personal gain is not adequately protected under these terms.
Go back and negotiate a better deal for the public and everyday common folk who are already locked out of so much of this nations natural beauty.
