Comments: I support building the Lemon Gulch trail system. Central Oregon is experiencing population growth and developing a new consolidated trail systems on public land will benefit our area. The Lemon Gulch trail system footprint will impact a small portion of all the land within the Ochocos and the benefits for many far outweigh the negatives for a few. As our population grows, it behooves land managers to stay ahead of the user demand that will be placed on our public lands. Creating defined recreation areas such as Lemon Gulch within national forest (public land) for respective activities will make managing these activities easier, more efficient, and fair for all users of public land in the future.
