Comments: The proposal set forth by the Crazy Mountain Access Project is an exceptional example of people from different backgrounds and interests coming together and entering into a dialogue with each other to find solutions to issues around access to public lands in the Crazy Mountains. The people involved in this project have come to this proposal with respect for one another and the desire hear and understand one another. What an amazing example for us to follow in this polarized world we live in.

Additionally, this is simply a good proposal that will benefit the likes of all those involved. I strongly urge us all to support this project and this proposal.
