Comments: I basically would like to comment that I understand we need materials from the earth to produce goods we use. I however would also like to add that sometimes the value of what is left in a natural state can have as much value or purpose as something we make. For the most part I think this area should be left as natural and undisturbed as possible for generations to come. I believe we can adapt without exploiting the resources of this area for short term gain. Thank you for reading my views.
