Comments: Enough, already, of our federal government trying to ruin our natural and wilderness areas just so some big corporations can make even more millions of dollars than they already do.

Lawmakers must begin to realize that wilderness is at a premium these days as there exists less and less of our Earth's surface that remains untrammelled by man.

If we continue to destroy nature, there will come a time when the human race will realize the folly of unchecked overpopulation and sprawl, all because of our refusal to limit our numbers and the ever-increasing need to exploit our natural resources to the detriment of other life forms.

The unending exploitation of natural resources must stop. Preservation of nature must not take a back seat to the human race's domination of our world.
