Comments: My father and I rafted down this segment of the Salmon River 65 years ago; it was pristine, gorgeous, clean and awe-inspiring. Any ONE of the likely after-effects of this project is highly detrimental to the river and surrounding area, and there are lots of disastrous after-effects that are likely. This project should no longer be under consideration: it is bad for the environment, water, people, wildlife and plants. Don't avert your eyes to the truth: this is a highly toxic and damaging endeavor. It is not in the best interests of the country to let this project continue to be under consideration.
