Comments: Proceeding with the Stibnite gold mine as proposed is a terrible mistake. The history of this site has been a disaster and there is a high degree of probability a project like this will cause long term damage to sensitive public resources. The harm to fish and wildlife will be permanent.

If the Forest Service allows this mine to operate Perpetua Resources needs to reduce the scale of the disturbances, improve the planned protection against spills and mishaps, restore all of the disturbed area and guarantee that remediation and water treatment will continue for as long as needed, in perpetuity and not take their profits and disappear.
