Comments: Everything I read about the environmental impact of the Stibnite mining project causes concern. The health of our land, wildlife and human population is at risk. The logging industry already creates a dangerous truck traffic situation through the heart of McCall. How could we possibly add toxic waste from mines to the existing problem? There is no route from the mining sight that does not pose the possibility of disaster for the environment. A healthy ecosystem is our legacy for future generations. We have a huge responsibility to protect it. Any financial gain for surrounding communities is temporary. The devastation of the environment is forever.
