Comments: I would like to submit a comment opposing the stibnite mine project in Idaho, as it will negatively impact the watershed. All mining projects similar to this have cause irreparable damage to the flora and fauna, as well as to the communities of people that rely on this river for their livelihoods. Additionally, the the Snake river is one of the most reputable whitewater rivers (as well as a fishing destination) in the United States of America, so creating a mine in this space will cause many of the small towns on this river to lose their main source of income (tourism).
