Comments: The current plan fails to reach a reasonable level of clean up post mining activity and we must hold an extremely high level of reclamation for the project to be safe.

Stibnite's creation of toxic waste will not help the South Fork heal from past mining operations. All toxic waste must be mitigated before any plans of future contamination are approved.

This project fails to accomplish any goal of cleaning up the historical scars and contamination left by previous mining.

Lastly, we do not trust Perpetua Resources and the parties involved in the Stibnite mine to hold themselves accountable for any damages to the South Fork watershed now or ever.
