Comments: Idaho's landscape is precious. Every single individual that lives in the great state understands how essential the natural landscape is to Idaho's identity, culture, and appeal. Do not put this mine in place. You cannot prevent environmental contamination. You cannot guarantee the safety of miners and local wildlife. You cannot argue that this mine will improve Idaho's scenic beauty. What this mine does do is destroy our natural ecosystems and will release heavy metals into watersheds and the surrounding environment. Think, would you want to live right next to this mine? When everything is extracted from the ground, will you still be benefiting from this mine? The answer is no. I ask you not to construct this mine for the people of Idaho, the wildlife, the natural environment, and for everyone who shares in Idaho's wilderness.
