Comments: The fact that I even have to comment on a project like this is pathetic. Frankly speaking, if you're in support of the stibnite project or other similar projects that put the property of all Americans (aka public lands and their resources that belong equally to all of us) secondary to some scumbag who clearly never received any love or empathy in his life nor can he/she swim over the greater public then you must resign your position. Seriously, how dumb can you be to entertain these ideas?!?!

Also it's a scumbag move to not provide ample amount of time for public comments. You're wasting our time, our public tax dollars and our ability to enjoy something that is rightfully ours as American citizens. How about you spend the money/time that is used to review these public comments on projects that are so inherently stupid on maybe something like ecosystem improvements or clean-up projects that restore areas to as close of pre-human intervention in possible? Literally anything else. Stay away from the rivers and our public lands and we won't have an issue. Otherwise I'll be reading this same message at your funeral when I tell everyone how you didn't listen. Thanks for your time. -TH
