Comments: You've got to be kidding. How is this project not dead yet? Who hurt you? Do you still have a soul, or have you sold it?

Every decision maker involved with this should be forced to go visit this place. There's no chance in hell you'd allow this if you went there. This precious sliver of remaining wilderness represents what many Americans are referring to when they think of the great outdoors and proclaim this to be the greatest country on earth. Please don't screw this up.
