Comments: This is a sound project using current technology and practices to advance National resource needs at a location the has previously been mined (to which the federal government had/has legacy responsibility to correct.). Here, a private firm is committed to environmental safety, restoration prior to mining ops and limited impact. These resources are needed for economic prosperity (if nothing else, to keep producing all those little electronic devices that everyone loves). I support this mining effort. Hold them accountable to the safety and environmental protection plans developed and get out of the way so they can get to work.
