Comments: Stibnite and mining gold have no business within the nature of Idaho. Experience from traveling around parts of America have made me realize what Idaho has to offer and why I want to make this a permanent home. The nature of Idaho continues to keep Idaho what it is and was something I grew up with that I want my family to do the same. Stibnite will continue to pollute rivers of Idaho and cause damage that is irreversible to a pleasantly untouched area. People will help but it comes down to forest services and governments of Idaho to really make this change. Having people be aware of this was not as publicized as it should be and I blame the state of Idaho for this. Do better and keep Idaho around for people to enjoy for years to come.
