Comments: As an Idaho resident you can see the history of extractive destructive mining throughout the state and the lack of respect and oversight that has existed historically. This project is dangerously close to the Salmon river which is enjoyed by fisherman, hunters , and recreationists as well as providing vital wildlife habitat. The approach of "the damage won't be that bad" needs to be avoided on the few remaining natural resources that exist in damaged. Access is limited to 640 recreational users due to environmental impacts but the impact of this project would be far larger.
