Comments: I object to the gravel pit part of this project. The current location of choice for this mine is against everything the National Forest Service is proposing to improve and develop in the area. Putting this gravel pit right next to a trail system they look to enhance and improve user experience on will do the total opposite of that. It's like you invest heavily in a rose garden for folks to enjoy and then put a manure plant right next to it. People won't remember the new trailheads or toilets. All they will remember would be the deafening sound of ongoing rock crushing and the dust they breathe in when they are supposed to get that peaceful moment with refreshing air when hiking in the mountains!
