Comments: This is so sad that it isn't being restored or rebuilt. This shelter is unique and is loved for that. This is an icon of the AT and so disappointing that because it's too much work, this history will be lost. Many hike to enjoy the beauty of nature but also experience history and places that family/friends visited in the past to enjoy and feel a part of the past. Destroying this icon and putting up a small picnic table covering is tragic.
