Comments: I think this is a much needed and well thought out project. Clearly the road is not safe as is; vehicles have to negotiate deep ruts and hikers who had to park further away from the trailhead.

There are two things that I question. First, are a dozen parking spot sufficient? Second, is there something that can be done to limit the ATV traffic? There are just too many. There are many who don't really know what they are doing, increasing risk to themselves and others. They certainly destroy the roads, especially after a rain.
