Comments: To whom it may concern:

The Mountain Valley Pipeline is an ill-considered pipeline that only perpetuates our dependence on dirty energy and demonstrates that there is little consideration for the lives of the communities along its paths, polluting the water as it is built so badly that North Carolina won't issue a water quality permit. No clients are clamoring for the dirty gas that will travel along the pipeline -- the project is highly speculative and unnecessary. The federal government should be creating jobs in clean energy, not adding more degradation to Appalachia, into which it will pour even more money now and later to rehabilitate the communities that it continues to ravage.

Please protect Jefferson Forest, and reject any changes to the forest plan.

Thank you,
