Comments: I am scared. I am so scared for the air we breathe, our pets, our children- We cannot boast the greatest country in the world while removing the landscape that made it so amazing and worth exploring to begin with. I am scared for my relatives who already suffer with asthma, I am afraid for animals who have lived in these forests for their entire lives, and generations, and now have nowhere to go- They will die.

I don't want to live in a country where there are no forests. Or where the only ones left are payable tourist attractions. Corporations need to take some responsibility in giving back to the environment.
