Comments: Dear National Forest Service, I'm a marine biologist by profession and am keenly aware of the connectedness and delicacy of ecosystems. The disruption of running a pipeline through the National Forest along with the attendant destruction associated with routing such a pipeline would have serious consequences to the forest and its vital water pathways that traverse it. I strongly oppose supporting such a plan and the resulting effects that the ultimate use on natural gas will have on climate change. Do not be a contributor to this global problem!
