Comments: I recently learned that your plans are using science from 2006. So much has happened in forestry science since that time, especially regarding global warming. We need to keep the big old trees in our forests because they are the best at keeping carbon out of the atmosphere. It doesn't make sense anymore to say logging will help the forest and wildlife. There are a lot of good things in the proposal - erosion prevention, for example - but cutting down trees should not be part of it.
