Comments: It seems suspicious. The Forest Service is actively moving to shut down our last remaining back country access in this State through a collection of people known as BIC. Now we have a situation that the Forest Service is performing what I believe is a thinning of the forest. It may take ten years to complete. This will severely impact our ability to access the back country for both Summer and Winter recreation. And what I also believe is that when this project is completed, the forest service will keep the area closed, or limit access for a recovery period of, who knows how long that will be? I oppose this project unless there is a compromise allowing backcountry access for both winter and summer recreation.
