Comments: This project has been called one of the ten worst projects in the U.S. by a national coalition of 120 environmental groups. It will devastate our forests, endanger the water quality of the Chittenden Reservoir, and destroy the natural habitats needed by threatened and critically endangered species like the Northern Long-eared Bat.

We need mature and old-growth trees to remove and store carbon. This is more important than ever as we see the climate crisis escalating around the world, and here, in Vermont.

This project will be detrimental to the future of our shared home. Please say "no" to the TGIRP plan.
